TMP ANNOUNCES LEED ACCREDITED PROFESSIONALS

Bloomfield Hills, Mich., July 7, 2009 — TMP Architecture, Inc., an architectural firm based in Bloomfield Hills, Mich., is proud to announce that professionals Doris Grose and Emilie Naismith have passed the Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) exam and have received LEED accreditation. Grose and Naismith are both architectural interns with the firm.

Grose earned a Master of Architecture degree from Lawrence Technological University in 2008. Originally from Germany, Grose earned the equivalent of a Bachelor's Degree in Architecture from the University of Applied Sciences in Regensburg, Germany in 2006. She spent three years with firms in Germany before joining TMP in 2008. Grose has contributed to TMP projects such as the Michigan State University Life Science Addition; Chesterfield Elementary School for L'Anse Creuse Public Schools; and a building addition project for Oakland Community College in Southfield.

Emilie Naismith has a Bachelor of Science (2007) degree as well as a Master of Architecture degree (2009) from Lawrence Technological University. She began with TMP in 2007, and has worked on project teams for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, Battle Creek Public Schools and Michigan State University.

TMP, celebrating its 50th anniversary this year, has offices in Bloomfield Hills and Portage, Michigan as well as Columbus, Ohio. The firm serves a variety of clients including K-12 educational, college / university and municipal. Recent award-winning projects include the new LEED Silver Certified Skyline High School for Ann Arbor Public Schools and the new Penta Career Center in Perrysburg, Ohio. Some of TMP's current projects include the Life Science / College of Nursing Addition at Michigan State University, the Battle Creek Central High School Remodeling and Addition project and a facility assessment for Berkley Public Schools.
